UNX ANNOUNCES NEW PREMIUM SOLVENT PRE-SPOTTER OUST

Greenville, N.C. (Aug. 15, 2021) – Every year, hotels and other hospitality facilities discard thousands of barely-used bath and bed linens because of stubborn cosmetic and tanning lotion stains. Cleaning these products is often labor intensive and not cost-effective, making disposal a costly, but necessary option. UNX Industries is excited to announce the launch of their new premium pre-spotter treatment, Oust.

Oust's proprietary concentrated solvent makes it an exceptionally versatile pre-spotter, effectively removing tough oily dirt and stains on linens, towels and clothing. Shirt laundry businesses will find Oust a quick and economical pre-treater to help remove embedded food, cosmetic and body oil stains from cuffs and collars with minimal brushing.

"In our conversations with customers, specifically in the hospitality and commercial laundry industries, we knew that reclamation is a significant area for potential cost-savings," said Josh Lilley, president of UNX. "Over the past year we've put significant effort behind developing a new product formula to address this challenge. We're excited to see Oust hit the market and deliver a real money-saving benefit for our customers."

"The challenge on the research team was to develop a concentrated solvent that would work effectively on a wide variety of fabrics and really tackle those stubborn oily stains from make-up, as well as body oil," according to Chief Technology Officer, Ryan Cotroneo. "In our testing, Oust proved highly-effective on embedded stains from food, cosmetics and other substances on bed linen, khakis, polos and numerous other fabric types."

Oust is now available through UNX's extensive distribution network. Learn more about how Oust can benefit your business at <https://unxinc.com/product/oust/> or contact a member of the UNX sales team.
